LESSON OVERVIEW

What should students know/do by the end of this week's lessons?

Students will learn to analyse how drama characters and settings engage viewers, using accurate textbook terminology and a justified example. They will also learn to compare medical-drama conventions with sitcom conventions, using relevant evidence and clear explanations. Through teacher demonstrations, discussion and practical activities, students will practise these skills and explain their ideas.

End-of-Week Assessment/Check: How will you know they got it?

Teacher questioning, discussion, completed activities and the final checks in both lessons. Check accurate terminology, specific evidence and clear explanations of the weekly topics.

LESSON SLOTS - TUESDAY & FRIDAY

Lesson	Date	Learning Objective	The Lesson Flow	Differentiation
1	10 November 2026	Lesson 1: Television drama: characters and settings By the end of this lesson, students will be able to analyse how drama characters and settings engage viewers.	H: Use a short example or retrieval question to activate prior knowledge of television drama: characters and settings. ID: Teach central protagonists, supporting characters, relationships, voice, gesture and stereotypes; recurring locations and familiarity. WD: Model one analysis or worked response. Identify a specific feature, explain its meaning and link it to audience or purpose. YD: Students create a character relationship map and analyse how a setting helps the audience understand relationships or conflict. Require evidence and explanations, then check responses with a partner. C: Students explain how one performance or setting detail engages viewers. Use responses to identify misconceptions.	Support: Provide key vocabulary, a labelled example and a response frame. Break the task into steps and check understanding before independent work. Extension: Compare an alternative example or interpretation and justify how context changes the audience response.

2	13 November 2026	Lesson 2: Medical drama and introduction to sitcom By the end of this lesson, students will be able to compare medical-drama conventions with sitcom conventions.	H: Use a short example or retrieval question to activate prior knowledge of medical drama and introduction to sitcom. ID: Teach medical settings, professional roles, emergencies and personal storylines; sitcom recurring characters, settings and comic disruption. WD: Model one analysis or worked response. Identify a specific feature, explain its meaning and link it to audience or purpose. YD: Students compare short medical-drama and sitcom examples using setting, character, narrative and audience appeal. Require evidence and explanations, then check responses with a partner. C: Students identify one shared feature and one meaningful genre difference. Use responses to identify misconceptions.	Support: Provide key vocabulary, a labelled example and a response frame. Break the task into steps and check understanding before independent work. Extension: Compare an alternative example or interpretation and justify how context changes the audience response.
